

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON ECONOMIC REFORMS

The conference was held in Beijing, China, from October 15 to 19, 1985. It was organized by the World Bank and the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences. The main theme of the conference was "Economic Reforms in China: A Review and Prospects". The conference was attended by representatives from over 30 countries, including the United States, Japan, the Soviet Union, and several European countries. The conference was a landmark event in the history of international economic relations, as it was the first time that a large number of international scholars and officials gathered in China to discuss economic reforms. The conference was held in Beijing, China, from October 15 to 19, 1985. It was organized by the World Bank and the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences. The main theme of the conference was "Economic Reforms in China: A Review and Prospects". The conference was attended by representatives from over 30 countries, including the United States, Japan, the Soviet Union, and several European countries. The conference was a landmark event in the history of international economic relations, as it was the first time that a large number of international scholars and officials gathered in China to discuss economic reforms.

The conference was held in Beijing, China, from October 15 to 19, 1985. It was organized by the World Bank and the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences. The main theme of the conference was "Economic Reforms in China: A Review and Prospects". The conference was attended by representatives from over 30 countries, including the United States, Japan, the Soviet Union, and several European countries. The conference was a landmark event in the history of international economic relations, as it was the first time that a large number of international scholars and officials gathered in China to discuss economic reforms. The conference was held in Beijing, China, from October 15 to 19, 1985. It was organized by the World Bank and the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences. The main theme of the conference was "Economic Reforms in China: A Review and Prospects". The conference was attended by representatives from over 30 countries, including the United States, Japan, the Soviet Union, and several European countries. The conference was a landmark event in the history of international economic relations, as it was the first time that a large number of international scholars and officials gathered in China to discuss economic reforms.

The conference was held in Beijing, China, from October 15 to 19, 1985. It was organized by the World Bank and the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences. The main theme of the conference was "Economic Reforms in China: A Review and Prospects". The conference was attended by representatives from over 30 countries, including the United States, Japan, the Soviet Union, and several European countries. The conference was a landmark event in the history of international economic relations, as it was the first time that a large number of international scholars and officials gathered in China to discuss economic reforms. The conference was held in Beijing, China, from October 15 to 19, 1985. It was organized by the World Bank and the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences. The main theme of the conference was "Economic Reforms in China: A Review and Prospects". The conference was attended by representatives from over 30 countries, including the United States, Japan, the Soviet Union, and several European countries. The conference was a landmark event in the history of international economic relations, as it was the first time that a large number of international scholars and officials gathered in China to discuss economic reforms.

The conference was held in Beijing, China, from October 15 to 19, 1985. It was organized by the World Bank and the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences. The main theme of the conference was "Economic Reforms in China: A Review and Prospects". The conference was attended by representatives from over 30 countries, including the United States, Japan, the Soviet Union, and several European countries. The conference was a landmark event in the history of international economic relations, as it was the first time that a large number of international scholars and officials gathered in China to discuss economic reforms.