

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON THE HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN WEST CONFERENCE: WESTERN HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The conference will focus on the history of the American West, with particular attention to the role of the federal government in the development of the region. The conference will be held at the Western Historical Society in Denver, Colorado, from September 15-17, 2008. The conference is open to all who are interested in the history of the American West. For more information, please contact the conference organizers at the Western Historical Society.

Registration is free, but a donation of $100 (or more) is requested. The conference is organized by the Western Historical Society, which is a non-profit organization dedicated to the study and preservation of the history of the American West. For more information, please contact the conference organizers at the Western Historical Society.

The conference will feature a variety of activities, including keynote addresses, panel discussions, and roundtable discussions. The keynote addresses will be given by leading scholars in the field of American western history. The panel discussions will focus on a variety of topics, including the role of the federal government in the development of the American West, the history of the American West, and the role of the American West in the history of the United States. The roundtable discussions will provide an opportunity for participants to discuss their research and to share their insights with one another.

The conference is a unique opportunity for scholars and students alike to come together and discuss the history of the American West. It is a chance to hear from leading scholars in the field and to share your own research with one another. The conference is a must-attend event for anyone who is interested in the history of the American West.
