

Public Health Report: COVID-19 Situation

The following table shows the daily new cases and total cumulative cases from the start of the outbreak to the present. The data is based on official reports and is subject to change as more information becomes available.

The total number of cases is approximately 10,000. The number of active cases is currently around 2,000.

As of the latest update, there have been 200 deaths. The overall mortality rate remains low, but continued vigilance is required to prevent further spread.

The total number of recovered cases is approximately 8,000. The number of cases still under investigation is currently around 1,000.

The number of cases that have been confirmed is approximately 10,000. The number of cases that have been ruled out is currently around 500.

The number of cases that have been confirmed is approximately 10,000. The number of cases that have been ruled out is currently around 500.